MISSING MAN FEARED SLAIN

Relatives Believe Candidate for Kentucky Judgeship Killed and Cremated.

U. S. AGENT INVESTIGATES

Son Tells Officials Father Abducted Last Friday by Four Masked Men.

By The Associated Press

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30—While a department of justice agent today investigated the purported kidnaping last Friday of the Willis Staton, about 55, relatives of the missing candidate for circuit judge expressed belief he had been killed and his body cremated.

Ashes from the ruins of a burned shack near where Staton was reported abducted by four masked men early Friday were gathered yesterday by Staton's son, who said he would send them to a chemist for analysis. The son said the building was destroyed by fire the day his father disappeared.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that W. F. Woods, a federal agent, conferred with Mrs. Staton yesterday. He did not disclose the results of his investigation.

Staton's nephew, Joe Staton, who reported the abduction Friday, said four masked men stopped their automobile near here while they were returning from a political rally. The men ordered Staton to sign a paper they offered him, young Staton said, with the threat "sign that or die." When his uncle replied "I'll die," the youth related, the men took him away, leaving the nephew bound to the automobile.

Mrs. Staton said she believed her husband was kidnaped by political enemies. She said he received two letters recently telling him not to remain in the judicial race but he refused to withdraw. Staton, she said, had the support of coal miners in his contest as an independent candidate.

A crowd of miners conducted a fruitless search for the missing man Saturday.

YOUTH BURNED AS GASOLINE EXPLODES

Paul Showers, 14, Injured Seriously; Recovery Thought Likely.

Paul Showers, 14, suffered serious burns about the upper part of his body when gasoline in a motorcycle motor exploded yesterday about 2 p. m. while he was transferring the motor to a bicycle. The accident occurred at the home on the Harvey road one and one-half miles north of Marion, and in the presence of several boys gathered to watch proceedings.

The young man was burned in an attempt to save the gasoline tank on the motorcycle from exploding.

His physician said that he was burned about the face, arms and chest and that although the injuries were serious he probably would recover. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Showers.

BUCYRUS MAN IS BURNED TO DEATH IN HOME

Body Is Found by Delivery Boy From City Relief Department.

GAS STOVE IS BLAMED

Clothing Believed Ignited While Victim Was Setting Up Heater.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 30—Charles … Crilis, 75, was found burned to death on the floor of his home at 326 Hill street Saturday about 4 p. m. by a delivery boy who had gone to the home with a package of meat from the city relief department. The body was burned beyond recognition and one leg was burned off. He lived alone.

A hole about three feet in width was burned through the floor and newspapers placed about on the floor and a rug also were burned.

Flame from Pipe

A flame from the disconnected pipe of a freshly polished gas stove in the livingroom of the home, near which the body was lying, led officers to believe the man's clothing caught fire while he was attempting to connect or test the stove. The stove itself was not lighted. Coroner George Mannhardt pronounced death due to accidental burns. The floor is believed to have caught fire from the man's clothing.

The delivery boy, whose name was Hipp, discovered the body when he looked through a window. He notified Police Chief Philip Trautman and Deputy Fire Marshal Harvey Ulmer.

Crilis was seen about his home Friday by neighbors. According to officers the accident occurred several hours before the body was found.

Niece Survives Him

Mr. Crilis had lived in Bucyrus practically all his life and followed the occupation of a painter. A niece, Mrs. J. W. Glancer of Kiwanis Lake, O., is the only near relatives surviving him.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Munz funeral home. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Young Italy Flocking To Altar Today

Observe Occasion of Mussolini's New Fascist Rite.

By The Associated Press

ROME, Oct. 30 — Seven hundred young couples from Rome and 1,800 from provinces were married simultaneously this morning in celebration of a new Fascist rite, "the consecration of nuptuality," created by Premier Mussolini to encourage a large population.

The Rome couples first attended private ceremonies in their own parishes and then gathered at the church of St. Mary of the Angels, where the archbishop of Palica celebrated a special mass and imparted a blessing.

The newly-weds, preceded by bands playing wedding marches, then marched under a brilliant sun through streets crowded with women throwing confetti, to the Fascist recreation organization headquarters.

The Fascist secretary, Achille Starace, presented each couple with 500 lire (about $40) a bank note as a gift of Il Duce. Many determined mothers-in-law immediately appropriated the gift for safekeeping in a bank.

The couples then were served a buffet wedding breakfast.

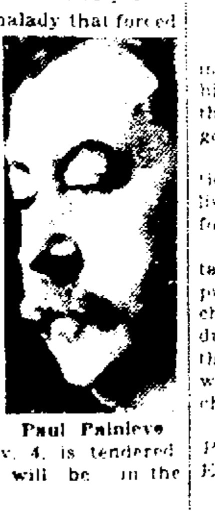
FRANCE PREPARES TO HONOR STATESMAN

Paul Painleve, 70, Dies of Heart Attack at Paris.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 30—France prepared a national funeral today for one of its illustrious statesmen, Paul Painleve, 70, who died yesterday of the same malady that forced him out of public affairs —heart disease.



Paul Painleve

He died within 24 hours after President Albert Lebrun had dedicated Saturday the new "Painleve amphitheater," conservatory of arts and trades.

Today plans were made for the body to lie in state there until a national funeral set for Nov. 4, is tendered. Burial probably will be in the pantheon.

Scholar, diplomat and statesman, he also found time to ride hard a hobby which interested him early—aviation. In 1908, he was Wilbur Wright's first passenger in France.

He was premier of France in 1917 and in 1925 and served for a time as war minister during the world conflict.

Roosevelt Prepares To Purchase Gold Abroad

President's Move Seen as Step To Gain Control of World Price Level.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—President Roosevelt fortified his price-raising drive today against foreign raids with preparations to buy gold in the world markets.

It was the obvious intention of the President through this step to increase and then control the world price level of the precious metal. Apparently he was convinced a constant rise in gold prices would stimulate a similar upward movement in commodities.

Mr. Roosevelt stated last night after a lengthy talk with government financial leaders that the machinery for purchasing gold abroad would be set up immediately.

This was unofficially interpreted as meaning he was dissatisfied with foreign influences on his price recovery campaign. The White House parley followed a drop in the London gold market Saturday.

The London drop brought a differential between that market and the United States of $1.25 an ounce.

In Foreign Markets

So Mr. Roosevelt decided to go into the foreign markets and place his game on a world scale with the determination to control the gold value to the dollar.

This is preliminary to revaluation of the dollar and the establishment of the Roosevelt proposal for a managed currency.

It is expected here that it will take a couple of days, at least, to put up the machinery for gold purchases abroad. The President has directed that this be done through the reconstruction corporation, which is making the domestic purchases.

After the three-hour parley, the President authorized Stephen Early, a secretary, to state:

"The subject under discussion was the immediate setting up of machinery under which the government, through the reconstruction finance corporation, will be enabled to buy gold in the foreign market."

Those who took part in the conference were Dean Acheson, undersecretary of the treasury; Eugene Black, governor of the federal reserve board; Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the reconstruction corporation; Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the farm credit administration; George L. Harrison, governor of the federal reserve

Private Rites Planned for E. H. Sothern, Noted Actor

Widow Excludes Throng Who Would Pay Respects From Funeral of Great Romantic Thespian.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The last rites for E. H. Sothern, who devoted a lifetime to audiences will be performed without one. Broadway celebrities anxious to do honor to the memory of the street's great romantic actor would have filled Manhattan's largest church, but Julia Marlowe has decreed otherwise.

After the news of the 73-year-old actor's death from pneumonia Saturday, was made public yesterday, his widow announced the services would be private, attended only by herself and intimate friends. Even the time and place of the funeral was withheld. The body will be cremated.

When Sothern retired in 1920 he brought to a close a stage career of half a century. He had started life as a painter and became the best-known Shakespearian actor of his time.

He was born in New Orleans on Dec. 6, 1859, the son of an English actor, Edward Askew Sothern. [illegible] father determined that Sothern should be a painter, and educated him accordingly. But the boy succumbed to the footlight lure in his blood.

STRIKERS STAGE RIOT ON DETROIT STREETS

Police Reserves Called To Halt Outbreak; Bricks Hurled.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 30—A mob said by police to number 2,500, riding in nearly 300 automobiles, today swept through streets in which several tool and die shops are located, hurling bricks through plant windows and overturning automobiles in what officials said was a demonstration against tool and diemakers who have returned to work during a strike.

Police reserves were called after the mob visited the plant of the Kiestlin Tool & Die Corp., smashing 134 windows, but the men had sped on to the plant of Frederick A. Colman & Sons, where they circled the factory, then drove away as patrolmen rushed to the place.

The demonstrators then sped to the Faigle Tool & Die Co. plant where they overturned automobiles parked in a lot near the factory, hurled bricks through windows, and stormed the offices of the plant. Officials reported the men seized blue prints and drawings, took them into the streets and burned them.

FRANCE WILL DEFAULT AGAIN

Government of New Premier Plans To Let Debt Payment Pass.

FAILED TO PAY TWICE

Stand Responsible for Herriott's Absence from Cabinet.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 30—The government of Premier Albert Sarraut, it was learned in official quarters today, intends to default on the American war debt installment due Dec. 15, as did Premier Edouard Daladier, June 15.

It was said semi-officially the government would abstain from raising the question in parliament and this policy, rather than his health, would be responsible for the absence of former Premier Edouard Herriot because his participation would be certain to revive the debt question.

(M. Herriot is an advocate of the debts payment. The Dec. 15 due payment is $22,200,928).

At the treasury it was said unofficially that considerable foreign capital which had sought refuge in France has been withdrawn recently, as will be shown in a further reduction of the Bank of France gold statement, Nov. 2.

The American dollar's recent rise was attributed to these withdrawals. It was estimated the foreign capital remaining did not exceed 10,000,000,000 francs ($600,000,000 approximately).

U. S. Officials Not Expecting Payment

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—American officials have been prepared for a continued war debt default by France as probably inevitable, regardless of who might be heading the cabinet when Dec. 15, the next due date, arrives.

PAY DAY AT MINES.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—It was pay day at the bituminous coal mines of southern Ohio today. And payday meant more than it has for years to approximately 10,000 miners. The new scale, set up under the NRA bituminous coal code, raised wages of the workers nearly 40 per cent.

MOST STORES IN U. S. UNDER NEW PROGRAM

Regarded as Greatest Experiment of Industrial Recovery Plan.

F. D. R. MEETS STEEL MEN

Wants To Know Why Mine Code Has Not Been Adopted.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Most of the country's retail stores with millions of employes began putting into operation today the single compact applying equal standards of trade honesty and fair competition to all.

Officials regarded this NRA retail code as the greatest experiment in the industrial recovery program, and the start of its operation shared attention with big problems of the day.

Chief of these was up at the White House. President Roosevelt invited the steel industry's leaders to tell him why they had not worked out for their coal mines the labor agreement which he demanded three weeks ago.

With this session the President expected to establish definitely whether the steel men proposed to accept all of his industrial program including the portion they liked least or to challenge his authority and force a test of the law's constitutionality.

A reason why particular importance attached to the retail code was that unlike most manufacturing industries, hardly a unit could have been reached by federal regulation.

Even under the new law the extent to which regulation may be enforced has not been established clearly.

Only the declaration of the industrial act that the employment emergency is a burden upon interstate commerce gives the federal government any right to get at local trade, and this authority will expire whenever the emergency is declared at an end.

Officials believe success of the program must rest chiefly on the will of business to rule itself, and to conform out of self interest. They are looking also for action by states to establish laws for permanent regulation.

Today's steel conference was a consequence of the coal mine strike in Pennsylvania. The men demanded that the mines owned by the steel mills, known as "captive mines" because their output is not sold into contracts with the union.

President Roosevelt told the steel men their mines had to be governed by the bituminous coal code.

The President declared that if the mine operators failed to act voluntarily he would.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corp. headed the group of 14, representing the steel and iron companies which control the coal mines.

He said a settlement has not been reached with the miners, but added "we are here to find a settlement."

President Roosevelt had at his side Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

Those who accompanied Taylor included three lawyers, Nathan L. Miller, Paul O. Cravath and H. A. Moore.

Managing Money: A New Job For The New Deal

NO. 3—THE ROOSEVELT DOLLAR AND FARM PRICES

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How may the farmer expect to fare under a "managed" dollar? This article, third of a series of four dealing with the government's monetary program, looks into this question.)

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK [illegible] American farmer [illegible] crop at the [illegible] ing year [illegible] rays of hope from the new Roosevelt dollar.

Restoration [illegible] price structure [illegible] by the new [illegible] of the government.

President R[illegible] tion. "The [illegible] has been gradually [illegible] a balance in the price [illegible] so that farmers may exchange their products [illegible] try on a fair [illegible]

The government [illegible] purchase plan was announced [illegible] policy to accompany [illegible] American commodity price levels.

Farm Benefit Seen

The farmer [illegible] stands to profit [illegible] increase if it materializes.

In the new government monetary policy are [illegible] for raising commodity [illegible] at which gold will be purchased domestically are to be made from time to time through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and as the domestic gold price in terms of dollars increases the theory is that prices on other commodities will increase in about the same ratio.

Equalization From Price Rise.

Some economists hold that rising prices in any given range will tend toward the equalization of which the President spoke.

It is contended that prices which have not declined or which already have attained parity will not rise, but that prices which are too low will be equalized.

Should the new plan operate effectively, the spread between the prices paid to the farmer and the prices at which commodities are sold to the consumer should be reduced.

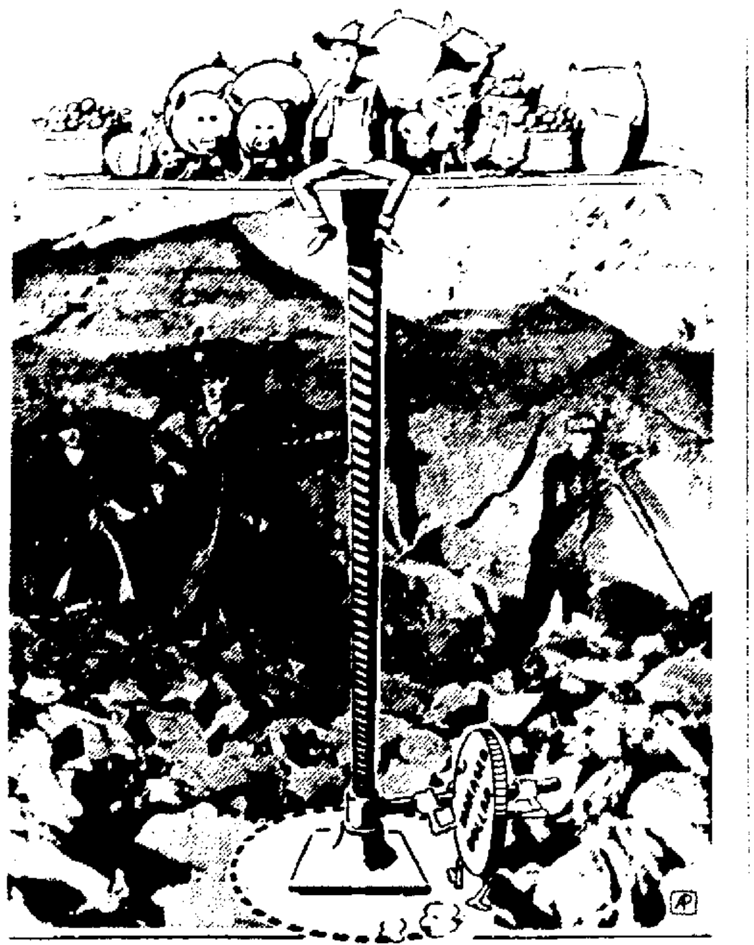
This is based on an economic theory which contends that in the price paid by the consumer are certain fixed charges, such as for distribution which would not rise so rapidly. Thus, the theory holds, the price to the farmer would increase two or three times while the fixed charges represented in the consumer price would increase only slightly.

Aids Already Operating.

A move toward equalization of farm prices has been sought in part through acreage retirement and processing taxes on several commodities, and the agriculture adjustment administration has extended numerous aids to the distressed farmer.

But even on the eve of the experimental period of the new monetary program some farm organizations and federal office holders in agricultural districts demanded strong inflationary policies.

Already this year farm prices have been increased both through operation of NRA and AAA, but the equalization tendency theory in the new monetary policy is looked to by proponents of money management to effect both adjustment and stabilization of commodity prices.



According to the theory of the "managed" dollar, a farm price rise may be brought about by fixing the price of gold at a higher level, the dollar's gold equivalent thereby being reduced. The possibility of special benefit for the farmer lies in the theory that commodities whose prices are the lowest stand to gain the most. The photo shows a typical gold mine, where the government's new monetary policy is a stimulant.

Twelve Checks of unusual value

Of all the services that we are privileged to render, we can most heartily commend our One-Year Monthly Income plan.

After the death of the insured we deliver twelve checks, one every month for a year. A favorite amount is $100 monthly.

These ready dollars in that trying first year are beyond valuation. They furnish comfort and assurance; a chance to collect thoughts, revive courage and lay new plans.

The premium, paid once, twice or four times a year, runs about a nickel a day at age twenty, a dime in the early forties or a few cents more if you start later in life.

Larger amounts or longer periods can be arranged. A choice of policy forms is available. Premium referred to above is for "Endowment at Age 85."

Set up this safeguard for your home circle and they will never be caught unprepared. It will make an ideal supplement to your lump-sum insurance.

Mauve Decade Recalled in Gay 90's Party Held Here

HANDS of the clock were turned back to the mauve decade for the 60 guests invited to the "gay 90's" party at which Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. LaMarche, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Prendergast, Mr. and Mrs. Dan LaMarche, Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaMarche, Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Huber and Miss Jeannette LaMarche were hosts and hostesses Saturday evening.

Kings and queens of the late Nineteenth century hobnobbed with political and other characters of the day and the lace gowns and brilliant hair ornaments of the women guests were in gorgeous contrast to bicycle girls and others of the decade.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Evans, attired in a [illegible] costume, were awarded first honors for costume. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Schaffner. Second honors were won by Mr. and Mrs. Jay H. Maish, third to Mrs. Chester M. Weil and fourth to Miss Jane Williams of Chicago, the house guest of Miss LaMarche.

Guests from out of the city included Mrs. R. E. Edmondson of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Robert [illegible] and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ward of Cleveland, Mrs. William and daughter, Jane of Chicago.

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—What type coats will be worn during the coming year?

Answer—Coat fabrics will undoubtedly be rough or mossy. They may be covered with soft, hairy down. They may be tweed, homespun—in fact, look exactly like those that men wear—diagonal or nubby for sports or tweed.

If coats are meant to be dressy the fabric will be smooth and mossy. In fact duvetyn or velvety surfaced fabrics are often seen, according to Miss Eunice Teal, clothing specialist at the Ohio State university.

The new coats are luxurious and elegant with much fur, which is all around the neck and used for yokes and jacket effects. Collars are shawl, scarf, and rolled styles. Long haired furs and short caracul, Persian lamb, mink, beaver, and seal are all much used.

The color of the fur usually matches or harmonizes with the cloth, although it may contrast.

Coats are high at the neck, sleeves are moderately full above the elbow, snug at the wrist and the rest is straight, fitting the figure comfortably.

As to colors—black, brown, taupe, grays, greens (both olive and blue green), wine, blackberry, and rust are favorites.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

The Seance

ANOTHER voice answered [illegible]

"[illegible] storm's going over. It'll [illegible] over now."

[illegible] had never heard this [illegible] any quite like it [illegible] of a fly in treacle [illegible] heard in a thick muf[illegible] [illegible] had a peculiar soft [illegible] that blurred the words, [illegible] never varied.

"[illegible] better get on with it. [illegible] That last crash put [illegible] but I shall have a [illegible] presently, and I've [illegible] about Jim before I go."

[illegible] had taken another step. [illegible] halted her. She had [illegible] listen, but when Nesta [illegible] get to know about Jim," [illegible] that she was going to [illegible] there was anything to [illegible] Jim she was going to [illegible]. She heard the soft sound [illegible] moving, and the gurgle [illegible] some other liquid. The [illegible] voice said:

"[illegible] the pool."

"[illegible] shall I see? Suppose I [illegible] anything." This was [illegible]

"[illegible] say you'll see, nor what [illegible] there's no saying. If [illegible] see nothing, there's no [illegible]. Look in the pool."

[illegible] fell on the room—a curi[illegible], enclosed by the sound [illegible] hurrying wind and di[illegible]der. It was like the still [illegible] the center of the storm. [illegible] edged forward and looked [illegible] the screen.

[illegible] room was full of a half light [illegible] for one bright patch—a light [illegible] downwards upon a bowl of [illegible] glass which appeared to [illegible] of ink. It was about the size of a hyacinth bowl, and it stood on a [illegible] with a worked cross-stitch [illegible].

On one side of this stool Nesta Riddell was kneeling, and on the [illegible] in a low armless chair sat a [illegible] elderly woman. This must be the other Caroline—Caroline Bussell, Nesta Riddell's cousin, the housekeeper at Packham hall.

She had a pale flat face, pale and [illegible], and a tight curled fringe of [illegible] hair controlled by a net. Her hands lay in her lap. She leaned forward over them, watching Nesta.

There was no sound in the room at all, and the sound of the wind and the thunder was drowned in a steady downrush of rain. Time did not seem to pass; it stood still. Caroline stood still, with her hand on the edge of the screen. She looked at Nesta, and Nesta looked into the bowl of ink.

ALL at once [illegible] Nesta said in [illegible]

"I can't see [illegible]"

"Sometimes [illegible]" said Caroline Bussell. "Ma[illegible] clear away."

"There's nothing [illegible]" Nesta's voice was [illegible]. She [illegible] back [illegible]. "There's nothing but [illegible] and [illegible] waves. It makes me giddy. I'm not going [illegible] more. I didn't come all the way here [illegible] the thing [illegible]."

Caroline Bussell [illegible] simple [illegible].

"[illegible] Nesta [illegible]. And [illegible] have [illegible] rather [illegible] might as well [illegible] up the mud in a pond and then expect to see clear to the bottom."

"Do it yourself," said Nesta [illegible]. "That's what I came here for. If I could do it I'd have done it at home and no need to come all the way."

Caroline Bussell leaned down and took up the bowl of ink. She set it in the hollow of her lap and drew the lamp so the light shone upon it. All her movements were slow, smooth, and noiseless. The light from the lamp shone down on the bowl of ink and on two pale plump hands and a fold of smooth brown skirt. Nesta Riddell was just a shadow now.

Caroline began to feel afraid. The time seemed endless before Caroline Bussell spoke, swaying forward a little.

"Ask—the fog is lifting."

Nesta knelt up. The movement brought her almost to the edge of the light again.

"Where's Jim? That's what I want to know. Where is he?"

Caroline Bussell began to speak slowly and monotonously.

"I see the fog lifting—waves breaking—ledge on a cliff—he is on the ledge—"

"What's the good of that? That's the part I know! Come down to present day! Where is he now?"

Caroline Bussell put up her hand. Then she leaned over the bowl of ink. Her brooch caught the light. She spoke again.

"Windows—blue—windows—up to the ceiling and down to the floor—no, that's curtain—blue—narrow—like slits—windows like slits—narrow—one, two, three, four—I'm in the middle of the room—I must turn round—one, two, three, four, five—five narrow windows like slits."

Caroline felt cold water run down her spine. Caroline Bussell wasn't looking into the ink pool now. The bowl was in her lap, but her hands had fallen; they hung [illegible] at her side like pale [illegible]. She [illegible] stiff [illegible] point above Nesta's [illegible]. The [illegible] that [illegible] her eyes [illegible]. Her [illegible] moved as she [illegible]

"Five windows like slits."

That was the Blue Room at Hyde [illegible]. She had said blue. How [illegible] steps kept [illegible] back.

"Is he there? Can't you see him?" Nesta's voice was low but insistent.

"No, not there."

"What room is it? Why do you see it if he's not there?"

"He has been there—I can feel him there. I am in the room—I am turning in the room. I am counting the windows—one, two, three, four, five, five windows like slits—and blue curtains—now the fireplace—deep hearth china candlesticks—one of them is broken. I think he broke it—now the door. I am still turning—he came through the door—fear jumped out at him and he ran away—I am turning again—there is a bed set back in the wall—headpiece, footpiece, and four posts—the bed draws him—he reaches it—no, not yet—not now—because of the other."

* * *

NESTA leaned closer.

"What room is it? Where is it? Why do you keep on describing it? Where is it?"

Caroline Bussell sat silent.

"Can't you see where it is? You haven't told me anything at all."

"Eight—green—stones—" said Caroline Bussell.

Nesta made an abrupt movement.

"Where are they? In that room? Are they in that room?"

"Eight green—" She swayed a little, stiffly like a figure carved in wood. "Eight—green—stones—five windows—like slits—I am counting the windows—"

"You've counted them!" said Nesta angrily. "You don't need to start all that again. Get back to the stones! Where are the eight green stones?"

Caroline Bussell swayed from side to side. The white of her eyes showed all round the iris. Her voice dragged.

"Five windows—blue—count—one, two, three, four, five—hearth—door—bed—"

"Where are the emeralds?" said Nesta in a furious whisper.

Caroline Bussell gave a violent start. She said in a loud heavy voice, "He's alive," and the bowl of ink tilted over. The ink ran down over her brown skirt, soaking into it. The bowl slipped off her lap and broke.

Nesta jumped up with an angry exclamation, but after that one violent start Caroline Bussell sat quite still, blinking her eyes. She did not seem to notice the ink that was soaking into her dress. After a moment she said in a bewildered voice:

"Did you know that he was alive?"

Caroline took three steps backwards and opened the door. The dark winding stair was before her. She went down half a dozen steps on tiptoe, holding her breath, and then ran as if there were wolves behind her.

ACQUIRING BEAUTY VIA BUBBLES

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Women Hurriedly Bolt the Nursery Door as a Warning Shout Is Heard from Below.

I DOUBT if an aggregation of pontiffs, potentates and presidents, no matter how puissant, would have any success in overawing Katie, if she once got well started on one of her rampages.

That Jim realized how near she was to explosion on account of her ungratified curiosity I was sure, when he hastily added the postscript, "The Chink's gone batty," to his mandate to "beat it, quick! I've got to get back in there."

Then, with something curiously like the attitude of one who has thrown a piece of raw meat to wolves following a sleigh, he turned and hurried back into the room he had left.

The sound of the closing door, and of the turning key that followed, was evidently the last straw laid upon my little maid's overburdened patience. I had paused to watch her, and when I saw her bring her clenched hands high above her head and shake them, the while she muttered tensely, "Oh! I could keel! I could keel!" I knew that it was time for me to take a hand in bringing her back to normalcy.

Calming Katie

I hated to use the one infallible weapon, always at my hand, but there was nothing else for me to do save to play upon her devotion to me, always an instrument ready tuned for use. But there was also real need of her, and a modicum of truth in the appeal I made to her.

"Katie!" I called softly. "I need you. I am dizzy and faint. Will you help me up the stairs?"

She dropped her hands inertly at the sound of my voice, and then came plunging across the room to me, put my head down against her shoulder.

"Don't say anything! Don't move!" I adjured her. "Just let me rest here a minute. I shall be all right presently."

Sobered, quieted, as she always is by sudden need on the part of any one of us whom she serves so faithfully, she put her strong arms beneath my elbows and held me without utterance.

For fully two minutes we stood there, and then, calmed as if something of my faithful little maid's sturdy strength had been conveyed to me, I raised my head and stirred within the circle of her arms.

She tightened her clasp immediately.

"Vy you no stand still anudder meenit, or two, tree?" she demanded. "Eef you dizzy, you no can valk."

"But I'm not dizzy now, Katie," I protested. "I think you have cured me."

She giggled irrepressibly.

"I t[illegible] I hav[illegible] shingle [illegible]," she said, and then a voice from above us said softly, [illegible]

"Madge!"

"Oh, Lillian!" I breathed. "Are the children all right?"

"Sound asleep and locked in for the moment," she said. "I have the key right here in my hand. But come upstairs. You and Katie can stage that wrestling match up here just as well as on the stairs."

I knew that she was speaking thus lightly in order to give me the impression that she was completely at ease about the children, but Katie evidently took the pleasantry as offered solely for her benefit.

"You so funny, Meesis Underwood," she said between giggles. "I could shoost die laughing ven you talk like dot."

"I'll oblige you any time you like," Lillian told her carelessly, then chanted a sort of obligato above Katie's giggles.

"Come into the nursery and see for yourself how safe the children are," she said. And then from below we heard a rush of footsteps and a hoarse shout.

"Look out, up there!"

Quick Relief from Constipation

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Out of The Shadows.

Maxim Litvinoff's carefully guarded departure from Russia is an auspicious opening in the development of a new character for American newspaper readers. For years they have been accustomed to Litvinoff's name and an occasional picture in connection with diplomatic negotiations abroad, but he was working and moving in the shadows of distance. There is every reason to believe that he will be given all the attention when he arrives in America that other foreign statesmen have merited on journeys to Washington.

Advance information indicates that he is in the best tradition of modern heroes of statecraft. Although bearing heavy responsibilities, his personal life is conducted along lines of spartan simplicity. Among many distinguished visitors who have been "good copy" for the press, he should be a standout. Strangely enough, although he is a comparative stranger to those who will be wanting to read about him, it will be himself rather than his government which will constitute a basis of interest.

He is, so to speak, a charter member of Russia's new social order, which has become one of the oldest governments in Europe. In spite of his long affiliation with the principle of communism and the soviet structure, he is not lopsided in his viewpoint, however. It is said that his value to Russia consists largely of his experiences as a London shopkeeper during a period when it was not discreet for him to remain at home.

Time.

President Roosevelt announced his new monetary policy Sunday night, Oct. 22. It was not until the middle of the following week that the government posted its first gold prices. Yet, before the end of the week there were those ready to conclude that the plan was a failure because prices failed to go up.

There is probably nothing that can be done about this foolish unwillingness of people to give a scheme a fair trial before they condemn it out of hand. It has been going on since the beginning of time, and many are the schemers who have been left behind weeping over their failure to elicit patience.

It has been only eight months since Franklin D. Roosevelt undertook the responsibility of rebuilding an economic system which had been falling apart for as many years as any one cares to estimate. The first two months of his administration were consumed with the work of getting the country calmed down and ready to try new remedies.

Yet, many Americans were willing to admit the remedies were no good almost as soon as they were administered. It was their personal conviction that nothing under the sun could cure the country's troubles, so why go on trying. As dangerous as this type of thinking was, it probably wasn't as bad as another type which caused people to go through the motions of taking the cure but believing all the time that before long it would prove fatal.

The most sanguine estimate of the time required to put the United States back on its feet if everything works could not be placed lower than two years on any basis of logic. Similarly, the theory that commodity prices can be raised by boosting the market price of gold artificially, if it is a sound theory, will not show results in practice until a complex process of adjustment has taken place—a process which will require months. Samuel Johnson reasoned thus about impatience: "In all evils which admit a remedy, impatience should be avoided because it wastes that time and attention in complaints which, if properly applied, might remove the cause."

Not Driblets, But Millions.

Many years hence when historians scrutinize the records of these times to reconstruct the trend of the Roosevelt recovery program they will be attracted, perhaps, by the colorful phrase "not in driblets, but in millions." It describes the intention of the administration to check farm revolt by advancing crop loans whose effect will be to peg the prices of certain farm commodities.

In what connection historians will use such a phrase is a guess which many Americans hesitate to make. Will the policy of [illegible] Perhaps [illegible] can stand [illegible] they are [illegible] plan which [illegible] they buy [illegible] in proportion [illegible] makers of [illegible] ment credit [illegible] purified and [illegible] chasing power.

But [illegible] a [illegible] so bad that [illegible] satisfied by distribution [illegible] It would be presumptuous [illegible] equivocal answer [illegible] possible. [illegible] a majority [illegible] that farmers will cease [illegible] and when they have had [illegible] Who determines the proper [illegible] share?

Farm relief is today and always [illegible] an economic problem whose [illegible] trusted to politicians. As long as [illegible] in charge of it, there will be [illegible] tribution of public money, producing [illegible] the same results in 1933 and 1934 as [illegible] tained in previous years when the net effect of spending millions for farm relief was stimulation of a demand for more millions and more assistance.

Capital Stagnation.

The fundamental conflict between the purposes of recovery and reconstruction in the national recovery program is illustrated precisely in the problem of capital stagnation. It is obvious that recovery cannot take place until so-called heavy industries show improvement. It is equally obvious that reconstruction cannot take place unless these industries, which call for capital investments, can be put back to work on a paying basis.

The securities act of 1933 was devised to prevent further undue stimulation to capital industries. It provides stringent restrictions on stocks and bonds offered to the public. People who formerly made a living by devising and operating these tools of credit claim that the restrictions are so severe that new financing is virtually impossible. They will try to "soften" the act in the next session of congress.

Their appeal for help is based on the theory that recovery from the depression will come about through revival of the capital market and a resumption of investment in capital goods. In the past, this always has been the case. In all depressions it has been heavy industries producing durable or capital goods which have contributed most to unemployment. It seems reasonable to say, therefore, that those industries must be stimulated before there can be recovery.

This is true when recovery is sought in terms of regaining former conditions. The United States, however, is seeking a recovery which will be at the same time reconstruction. A conflict is involved, a conflict so basic that compromise appears impossible in the near future. At present, it is difficult to say which purpose has the advantage, recovery or reconstruction. As far as the capital market is concerned, however, reconstruction is definitely in the lead.

The claim that capital investment is being paralyzed by the new securities act is well founded. Paralysis exists; it is doubtful if a billion dollars' worth of new securities will be issued this year, in contrast to an average absorption of more than six billions of dollars annually since 1919. This is one of the hard facts of the situation—a concrete reason for industry's failure to take up the slack of unemployment more than it has been able to do.

It is a threat to recovery, but a boon to reconstruction, according to the conception of the Roosevelt administration. For this conception's definition, one may turn to two presidential statements. The first appears in Mr. Roosevelt's book "Looking Forward." It reads: "Our industrial plant is built. That hardly requires more proof than we see around us constantly. . . . For 10 years we expanded on the theory of repairing the wastes of the war, but actually expanded far beyond that and also far beyond our natural and normal growth . . . Our last frontier has long since been reached . . . Our task now is not discovery of exploitation of natural resources or necessarily of producing more goods. It is the soberer, less dramatic business of administering resources and plants already in hand. . . ."

In addition to this plain statement Mr. Roosevelt described the need for strict supervision of the traffic in investment securities in the following [illegible] special message to congress last March: "There is an obligation upon us to insist that every issue of new securities to be sold in interstate commerce shall be accompanied by full publicity and information and that no essentially important element attending the issue shall be concealed from the buying public."

This has been done. The effect threatens speedy recovery, but fits perfectly into the administration's plan of [illegible]

LORIN ANDREWS

To Lorin Andrews, a native of A[illegible] county, fell the peculiar experience of becoming the president of a college which he once attended as a student but from which he was compelled to withdraw without graduating, for the reason that he could not bear the expenses which continuing his studies would have involved. His father was a farmer living near Ashland and in a log cabin on that farm Lorin was born in 1822. It was from 1840 to 1842 that he was a student at Kenyon college but was compelled to withdraw at the end of his junior year to earn some money. He became head of the Ashland academy and without teachers continued his studies. In 1854 he was elected president of Kenyon college.

Washington And Wall Street

BY GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rex Tugwell's drive to [illegible] further the well-tested laws on truth in advertising of foods and cosmetics through passage of a new food and drug act has won two new and important converts.

At Tugwell's invitation the First Lady and her attractive daughter motored down to the agriculture department the other day to go through his "chamber of horrors."

This is the carefully arranged exhibit that shows so graphically the phony claims shot at you from some directions and the dire results apt to follow from using the products.

Just as an example, there is the "cure" for diabetes which retails for $12 a pint. Alongside the carton with its claims is a bottle of "horsetail," a weed from which the patent remedy is made. On one side are a group of testimonials. On the other are the death certificates of those who testified.

And then there is the picture of the truly beautiful woman who ranked high socially in a midwestern town. Later you see a horrible photo of her sightless eyes—the result of having her eyelashes dyed with a certain preparation in anticipation of attending a testimonial banquet her grateful fellow clubwomen were tendering.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Dall were amazed at what they saw.

Mrs. Dall's pencil was busy taking notes the entire time she was in the exhibit room.

Mrs. Roosevelt [illegible] she would withdraw an article she had written and substitute for it a piece on what she had seen at the pure food and drug show. She vowed further she would lecture on the subject.

Battlers

The United Medicine Manufacturers of America, at their recent Chicago convention, devoted 17 points of attack on Tugwell's proposed new bill.

J. M. Ewing, Pennsylvania manufacturer and president of the association, and Clinton Robb, Washington counsel, will lead the battle. It takes in publicity of every imaginable description, a lobby on congress, support of advertising media drawing revenues from proprietary ads and the enlistment of allied industries such as manufacturers of cartons, tubes, boxes and bottles.

The inalienable right to self-medication is their battle-cry.

Retort

Food and drug administration officials meet this in simple words:

"Is the right to self-medication denied by requiring that drugs be labeled with directions for use under which they will not be dangerous to health? Or by requiring that drugs actually possess the remedial value ascribed to them in their labeling and advertising?

"Will the right of the consumer to medicate himself be abrogated by requiring the identity of drugs to be revealed on the label so he can have full knowledge of what he is getting and whether it is likely to be habit-forming?"

Tireless

Operation of President Roosevelt's forest army has been quite an expense—a little better than $1,000 per man—but it has accomplished a lot in one definite direction.

A new all-time low record for forest fire loss has been established since the lads of the C. C. C. have been answering reveille.

For the first nine months of this year there was a decrease of nearly 60 per cent in burned areas as compared with the same period in 1932.

Lumber

This is important in line with the President's desire to bring our forests around to a national lumber yield that will match the demand.

The [illegible] lumber market came to light after the C. C. C. asked for 300,000,000 feet to build winter camps for the boys in the South. When replies came in the forest army chiefs got a notice that there wasn't enough domestic lumber to meet the order.

This was soon straightened out. The C. C. C. took that amount of second-grade lumber [illegible] days' sawing) previously [illegible] on the market. But for a while they thought they might have to use steel and other materials.

Horrors

Uncle Adolph, the Iron Man of Germany, is using his carefully-controlled press to give the Nazis an idea the United States is armed to the teeth, according to our army and navy officers.

Hitler and his propaganda minister, Dr. Goebbels, are having all possible pictures of American battleships, tanks, artillery batteries, etc., run in the papers over such captions as "What have we got against this terrific menace?"

A recent night air pageant over Broadway was publicized as "colossal war maneuvers which had New Yorkers shuddering." Probably the show didn't even get a rise out of the blase theater crowds.

Notes

The C. C. C. has just ordered 2,000 snowshoes for the lads in the New England camps, to say nothing of bright red and black mackinaws. They'll look like a lot of college boys out for winter sport. . . . When President Roosevelt's yacht Sequoia was nosing up the Chester river 10 days ago a shiny speedboat darted out from shore and circled 'round and 'round the Presidential party. . . . At the wheel was John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, but he must have gone unrecognized for he got no applause at all. . . . After the World series was over the October meet at the Laurel race track held great attractions for a number of the New Dealers. . . . Their colleagues and aides are glad the Laurel meet is over.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The Cuban witches' brew is simmering to another boil.

A general condition of anarchy prevails outside of Havana. Courts are no longer functioning and crimes go unpunished. In Santiago a 20-year-old boy has seized the mayoralty and surrounded himself with his gang. In Havana the Communists grow stronger daily. Official estimates of their numbers are all too low. So far they haven't made much progress with the army but they are biding their time until Grau San Martin can no longer meet army payrolls. Then they mean to move fast.

The situation is so bad that even the moderate radicals now want no part of official power. Mendieta—of all people—has requested his followers to lay off their campaign to put him back in the presidency.

Money

Few Americans realize what a tough spot would-be Cuban dictators are in when it comes to paying the troops. Unlike some other countries they can't just order a fresh batch of bills off the printing press for the simple soldiers. Why? Because Cuba has no paper money. American bills are the only valid currency. They can't get these unless they export and their exports are dead.

Now there's a movement in Cuba to establish paper money and compel the citizens to accept it by law. Other South American nations have found this system [illegible] It's true that such action is forbidden by their treaty with us. But what's a treaty in the face of a national emergency—especially when there is small chance we would intervene on such [illegible]

Famine

Informed observers predict that the American Red Cross will be called upon to relieve a Cuban famine before the end of the winter.

[illegible] the [illegible] No [illegible] have yet been [illegible] they are still too damp but you can expect [illegible] within two months.

Silver lining to the New York speculator. That ought to help the price of sugar.

Labor

The Federation of Labor has done a [illegible] unpublished job in calming the strike fever. One of their hardest chores has been the education of the multitude of new Federation members. For some time nearly every group that joined paraphrased the traditional slogan of army recruits by inquiring "When do we strike?"

Russia

Speaking of credit, Soviet Russia has bought four and a half billion dollars' worth of foreign goods since trade was organized and has taken great care not to renege a nickel's worth.

Since recognition of the Soviets became a certainty the New York offices of Amtorg have been flooded with applications for jobs in Russia. Experts on everything from accountancy to vodka distilling are offering their services. One Amtorg official is willing to match the number of these job-seekers with that at Democratic national headquarters.

Honors

Heidelberg university got in wrong with the Nazi authorities because of honors it intended to pay Ambassador Dodd.

The original plan was to confer an honorary doctor's degree upon the ambassador at the next Founder's day. After Dodd made his famous speech on tyrants and oppressors there was a movement at Heidelberg to bestow the degree right away. When the Nazis found out about it two heads were figuratively chopped off with more to follow.

Talk

The disarmament conference has several parts: The bureau, the general commission, and the conference proper. One of the delegates thus described their work: "In the bureau they sit while they talk and smoke. In the general commission they stand up to talk and smoke. In the conference they stand while they talk and don't smoke. But everywhere they talk."

Sidelights

The British censor decided the movie title "The Power and the Glory" was [illegible] So the British title will be simply "Power and [illegible]." That makes everybody happy. . . . No Cuban officers were killed in the actual siege of the Hotel Nacional. . . . Plenty were [illegible] after they surrendered. . . . New York has a bartenders' school. . . . It hopes to graduate the first class in time to greet repeal.

Importance of Correct Posture

[illegible] only within recent years [illegible] and school authorities [illegible] realized the importance [illegible] posture for the growing [illegible] experiments [illegible] have confirmed [illegible] improper posture leads [illegible] constitutional disturbances.

Even when sitting correct posture is important. Children should be taught to sit upright, with the spine well supported by the back of the chair. Clumsy and unsuitable chairs should be avoided for the young [illegible] When sitting the feet should [illegible] the ground, with the soles placed squarely on the floor.

As I have said, poor posture is [illegible] the cause of much distress [illegible] childhood, but in many cases leads to permanent deformities in later life. In most instances, it is the result of poor habits. In such cases it is easily corrected if proper measures are taken in childhood.

BIG BUTTER-AND-EGG WOMEN.

The [illegible] of woman's [illegible] is the [illegible] "Big Butter-and-Egg Women" [illegible] type of femininity.

In these bright days a girl may be a "good catch" [illegible] strictly [illegible] she [illegible] self, is an outstanding success in some business [illegible] makes [illegible] point of view.

• • •

[illegible] the girl who was regarded as "lucky" when she landed a husband who had made good in the world. But now [illegible] just as likely to be the gal who has made her pile and the worthy young man who is "lucky" to land the big catch."

For every "prince" who weds the beautiful "beggar maid," there is a princess who can afford to marry a struggling young man and give him a lift up the ladder of success. Or an ornamental young man and keep him for a pet.

It is being done every day, both in New York, and in Hollywood, where there are so many "Big-Butter-and-Egg Women" — screen stars, beauty specialists, and big business women who have made their millions, their careers and their fame!

Of course, rich widows, wealthy debutantes and well-heeled divorcees always have been regarded as "good catches" in a furtive sort of way. But it is only since the advent of woman's economic independence that a girl could be a "good catch" on her own money.

• • •

Over in France, where the marriages are said to be the happiest in the world, men and women have always admitted that the big problems of matrimony was the economic problem. But it is only in the last two years, since young women have had to work shoulder-to-shoulder with their husbands or else stay single, that American girls have seen the light. And most American men don't see it yet. They want to be the big Pooh-Bah around the house, and to bring home all the bacon, even if it's only half a slice. And they shudder at the thought of being married to a woman who has a bigger pay envelope and a bigger job than their own.

It's a funny world! And marriage is getting to be like the weather; you simply can't predict how it will change by tomorrow. But the "Big-Butter-and-Egg Woman" seems to be here to stay.

Woman is a thrill-hunter these days. And to be regarded as a "good catch" must be even a greater new thrill than was before her first [illegible] her first [illegible] wearing her first pair of [illegible] "slacks."—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Some Requested Recipes in Ruth Campbell Letter

Star's Cooking School Instructor Again Heard from; Urges Cook Book for Every Kitchen.

DEAR READERS in Marion, [illegible] if only place a good [illegible] every kitchen in the [illegible] because such a [illegible] kitchen table would lessen my work ([illegible] doesn't it?) but be[illegible] cook book is an es[illegible] well-run house.

[illegible] many of you do not [illegible] cook, or if you own [illegible] consult it. This is [illegible] kind of questions [illegible] many of the questions [illegible] most simple and obvi[illegible]. Of course I am glad [illegible] these questions, and [illegible] kind of recipe, but [illegible] wonderful, and un[illegible] which ought to find [illegible] these columns; not the day-by-day dishes.

Custard Pie, Again.

[illegible] there have been [illegible]ests during the Cooking [illegible] a "good custard pie rec[illegible] recipe, in several varia[illegible] included in every cook [illegible] But here it is again, for [illegible] you who still have that [illegible] buy:

[illegible] eggs slightly beaten; one [illegible] cup sugar; one-eighth tea[illegible] two cups scalding hot [illegible] one-half teaspoon vanilla; one and one-fourth tablespoons cornstarch; two and one-fourth tablespoons flour.

Mix the flour and cornstarch with the sugar; add to the eggs and salt and mix thoroughly. Pour over this the scalding milk, slowly stirring until the sugar is completely dissolved. Cook six to eight minutes in the upper part of the double boiler, or until it coats the spoon. Stir constantly. Add flavoring and remove from the heat. Pour into a baked pie crust, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) twenty-five to thirty minutes. Serve cold.

Or if unbaked pastry shell is preferred, brush it with beaten white of egg, then pour in the custard and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. The white of egg helps prevent sogginess, although the use of the previously baked shell is recommended to avoid a soggy crust with this pie.

A meringue may be added; or a mixture of whipped cream and stiffly whipped white of eggs, with finely crumbled macaroon crumbs or nuts on top. The meringue is preferred by most cooks, and in this case should be the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, blended with one-fourth cup sifted sugar, spread on the pie. The whole set in a slow oven (300 degrees) for ten to twelve minutes.

Put the meringue on the pie when it is cold, and for best results serve the pie as soon as the meringue is browned.

Meringue Pointers.

While we are on meringues I want to add a few pointers about this delicate and important phase of cookery. So many questions come to me about meringues. "Why is mine tough? Why is mine watery? Why won't mine brown properly?"

If the dish is to be served hot the meringue must be ready to be put on as soon as the dish is ready; if to be served cold, let the dish cool and put the meringue on just before serving. Toughness in a meringue is usually caused by too high an oven temperature; if the meringue is cooked too fast however it will be tough, wrinkle, shrink and liquify.

Have the eggs cold, freshly beat the whites, that is, beat them, add the other ingredients and bake at once. The sugar should be powdered or the finest granulated, and in either case sifted. Have the egg whites stiff before adding the sugar and it should be cut in and folded in, or beaten in with an egg whisk; do not pour it in and expect to beat it into the eggs with a spoon. Some cooks like a flavoring in the meringue: one-half teaspoon of lemon extract with one-third teaspoon vanilla; or almond. Or omit flavoring. Spread at once on the pie, set in lower part of a slow oven (about 300 degrees) and bake ten to twelve minutes.

Another request was for uses for left over roast pork. Serve it thinly sliced as part of a cold meat platter, garnished with little mounds of pickle, cress salad and chutney. Or cut it in small pieces and use in a meat pie with small potatoes and onions; put through the meat chopper and mix with catsup, mixed pickle and a little mayonnaise for a delicious sandwich filling.

Broiled Mushrooms.

Another often asked question is: How do you broil mushrooms?"

First, buy only good market mushrooms. Never pick them in the fields, no matter how expert you are at telling the safe from the poisonous ones. A mistake with these fungi is only made once. The poisoning is fatal. But there are baskets of good mushrooms to be found on every lively market stand and at most grocers these days, because mushrooms are now grown for market by many specialists.

Select medium sized ones, wash quickly under running water than peel the caps with a silver knife. Discard the peels; cut the stems in half if very long. Many cooks discard the stems, but they can be used in creamed dishes. Melt for two cups of peeled caps and stems, enough butter to brush them all over (about two tablespoons.) Brush them with butter, sprinkle with a little salt and pepper. Lay in pan and broil under the broiler heat slowly until they turn black. This should be in five to ten minutes. Lift out carefully, set on thin slices of toast and add a little melted butter.

When broiled in a pan, prepare as above, then melt the butter in the pan, add the mushrooms, broil slowly, turning with a silver spoon until they are black. Serve on toast. When serving creamed mushrooms, the dish is better flavored if the mushrooms and stems are first broiled as above, then added to the cream sauce.

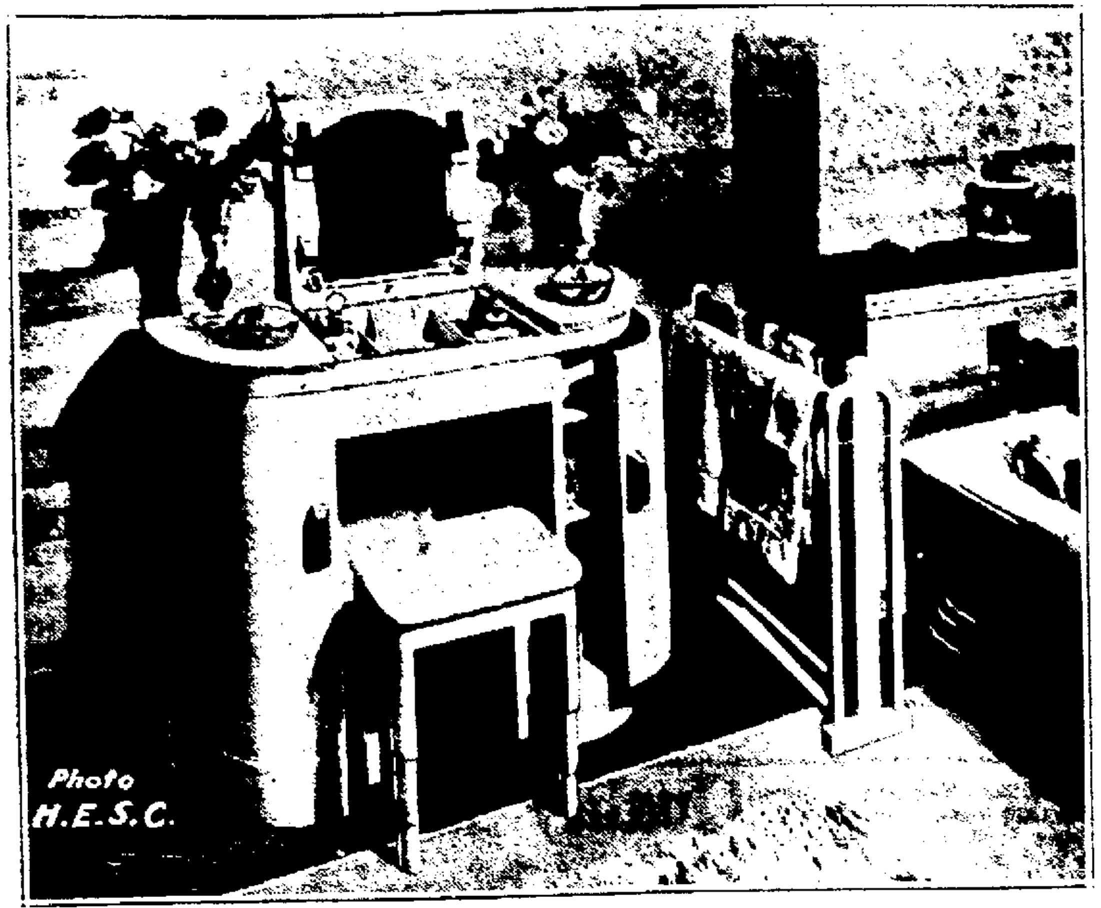
New Furniture and Pretty Colors in Bath Room



This modern bath-dressing room is described in the article below.

New Furniture and Equipment for the Bath-Dressing Room

ILLUSTRATED above is one of the delightful new dressing table and cabinet combinations, shown this Autumn for the first time. This piece and others designed to go with it, are especially well suited to the bath-dressing room, and with this use in mind, the designers have worked them out in the colors most popular at present for these rooms: blue, rose, yellow, orchid, and a combination of black and silver.

Hampers, towel racks, stools and smaller dressing tables match this handsome piece. The door at the right opens to show three adjustable shelves; the one at the left conceals a hamper. The lid of the dressing table, shown raised conceals a plate glass mirror, and two well-placed cylindrical lights which automatically turn on when the lid is lifted.

For Make Up.

The compartment just beneath the lid is divided into smaller sections to hold boxes, bottles, jars and puffs, making of this handsome piece, a beautiful and useful one as well.

The stool shown with it matches the color of the dressing table, and the towel racks at the right are of the same lovely yellow. The wall is papered with a washable wallpaper in stripes of yellow, tan and brown, very modern in its effect. The installed equipment such as lavatory and tub are of yellow porcelain, with bright chromium finish and black handles and black trim. The floor is covered with linoleum in two shades of brown, and the rugs laid on it are of shaggy yellow cotton.

DRIED APPLES IN A DELICIOUS DISH

ALWAYS wash dried fruit thoroughly in several waters either cold or lukewarm, until the water is clear. Remove any stems or hard parts, drain, and if to be cut for a recipe, use scissors, first rubbing the blades with butter to prevent the fruit sticking.

When cooking use an enamel or agate ware kettle, use a wooden spoon for stirring, cook slowly, and stir very little during the process. One pound dried apples contains about six cups, and one cup as bought, makes one and one-half cups when soaked.

Dried Apple Strudel.

This is not made like the real German strudel, but is delicious just the same. Line a square cake pan with rich pie pastry; fill three quarters full with soaked, stewed dried apples. Cover thickly with sugar and bread crumbs which have been dried, then tossed in melted butter. Bake, as for an apple pie until the top is very brown.

A variation of this is made by covering the bottom of the pastry lined pan with cottage cheese, then with crumbs tossed in butter, then with apples; repeat the crumb and apple layers until the pan is full, making sure that the top layer is a thick one of crumbs. Delicious with cream or sour cream, or with vanilla sauce.

DANCE TO FOLLOW MARDI GRAS PARADE

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 30 — Elaborate plans are being made by the Galion City band for a Hallowe'en dance to be held at the Galion armory Tuesday night following the Mardi Gras parade which is set to move at 8 o'clock.

Entertainment inside will include round and square dancing. Grand prizes will be offered for the best dressed couple; and for the best couple appearing in the grand prize dance.

SOME VARIETY IN PREPARATION OF BREAKFAST EGGS

PLEASE publish in your columns some different ways of serving eggs for breakfast." Such a plea came in during the Cooking School week.

Creamed eggs on toast is one of the most delicious ways to serve this favorite breakfast food. To serve six people have ready six hard cooked eggs; six slices of hot toast; one and one-half to two cups of cream (or white) sauce. Slice the eggs, add to the white sauce being careful not to break up the slices too much. Heat together without stirring and pour on the toast slices.

Add finely grated cheese to the sauce to vary this flavor, or finely chopped chives; or parsley or garnish the top of the toast with crisp bacon slices.

Or use a ring of freshly cooked rice in place of the toast, or use deep fried bread boxes or a ring of spaghetti or macaroni.

Or in place of cream sauce use curry sauce; tomato sauce; onion sauce (delicious with the grated cheese,) or a rich brown sauce or gravy from a left over meat dish.

Baked Eggs.

Five hard cooked eggs, sliced, two cups mashed potato, one tablespoon minced parsley, one-half cup medium white sauce, one teaspoon slightly beaten egg white.

Slice the eggs in crosswise slices, line the baking dish with the mashed potato, put in a layer of egg slices, sprinkle with the white sauce and parsley. Cover top with mashed potato. Brush with the spoonful of egg white. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) thirty minutes. Enough for six servings. A good dish to use up left over mashed potato.

Finely minced left over meat, or grated cheese may be added to the layer of sliced eggs in this recipe.

Scotch Eggs.

Six hard cooked eggs, two-thirds cup milk; two-thirds cup dried bread crumbs; one and one-half cups minced ham (or sausage meat), one or two eggs beaten.

Shell the eggs while hot, and keep hot. Cook the milk and crumbs together until they make a thick paste; add the ham or meat, and the beaten eggs. Mix well, then let cool. Roll the shelled eggs in this mixture and fry in deep fat until brown. Enough for six people.

Poached Eggs in Stock.

Use left over [illegible] soup or meat broth or use canned or other prepared stock. Six eggs; one and one-half cups stock; one-half cup grated parmesan cheese; one-fourth teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Have the stock boiling. Break the eggs one at a time in a saucer being careful not to break the yolk. Slip the egg into the boiling stock. Cook until the white is firm and there is a white film over the yolk. This is about three minutes for a soft egg and five to ten minutes for harder ones. A shallow pan will permit six eggs at a time. Remove to a hot platter, sprinkle with salt, pepper and grated cheese and brown one minute in a hot (400 degrees) oven. Keep hot meanwhile reducing the stock in which they poached and pour this over the cooked eggs. Serve hot.

DUMPLINGS-HOW TO MAKE GOOD ONES

"HOW do you make good dumplings?" that question is asked so many times of the Cooking School lecturer. The answer is much too long to be given from the platform, and so is condensed here for the benefit of cooks who do not own a good cook book.

The steamed dumpling is served with soups, with stews of meat or fowl or with roasts, and like other pastes (macaroni and spaghetti) dumplings are intended to extend certain dishes, adding both food value and flavor to an otherwise skimpy offering.

If they are to be served with meat or poultry, they should be cooked ten to fifteen minutes by dropping into boiling salted water (one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water). But they are best when cooked in the broth of the pot roast or with the stew. The vessel is covered, the dumplings dropped from a teaspoon or tablespoon eight minutes, for the former before time to serve the stew.

The Mixture

Two cups flour, five teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt; one cup milk. Sift the flour and baking powder together, add the salt and pour in the milk and mix as quickly as possible. Test, by dropping a little of the mixture into the boiling liquid. It should drop without sticking to the spoon, hold together and keep its shape in the liquid. If not, add a little more flour. Try several times if necessary until the mixture is right. But too much flour means a heavy dumpling.

BUCYRUS—A license to wed has been issued to Leslie M. Shearer of Galion and Pearl E. Richey of Crestline.

A Delicious Autumn Fruit Cake

The rich fruit cake is iced with a boiled icing, and decorated with slices of banana. Recipe is given below.

* * *

Banana Iced Fruit Cake

THIS recipe makes two loaves, or two round or square layers, which may be put together with custard filling. One and one-eighth cups shortening; one and one fourth cups sugar; seven eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately; three teaspoons baking powder; two cups milk; five cups flour; one fourth cup chopped orange peel; one half cup currants; one fourth cup chopped dates; one fourth cup blanched, chopped almonds; one teaspoon salt.

In making, reserve one tablespoon of the sugar and almonds to sprinkle on top after the batter is poured in the pans.

Cream the shortening and sugar together. Add the beaten yolks to this mixture, and gradually add the flour mixed with the baking powder and salt; when half the flour is added, add some of the milk, then more flour, then slowly add the rest of the milk and flour until all are blended. Mix in. Then fold in and thoroughly mix, the stiffly beaten whites, fruits and nuts last.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one hour.

Cover with boiled icing, decorating the top with thin slices of banana.

MARION CIVIL WAR VET DIES

James Buchanan, 92, Claimed by Death at Home of Grandson.

Death claimed one of Marion's best known Civil war veterans yesterday morning. James H. Buchanan, 92, who for more than 50 years made Marion his home, died at 9:30 a. m. at the home of his grandson, George Cogley of two miles east of Rawson, O., near Findlay. Dropsy was the cause of death.

Mr. Buchanan's short quick stepping figure was a familiar sight in Marion for many years. He was never in better spirits than when recalling the day he saw Lincoln, the time that he was taken, wounded, to General Grant's tent, the 32 battles in which he took part, his admiration for General Hancock, his dislike for General Butler, the story of the six horses that were shot from under him while he carried on his duties as a messenger in Co. H 11th Pa. Cavalry.

Saw Lincoln

Mr. Buchanan was present the day Lincoln gave his immortal address at Gettysburg. Of Lincoln, Mr. Buchanan once said in an interview, "He was a fine man, good, and it showed in his face . . . He was a great man." The president visited the hospital in which the young messenger boy was a patient and when he sat down by the boy's bed and saw the terrible wound made by bushwhackers, the president broke down and wept.

Mr. Buchanan served under Sheridan, Butler, Meade, Hancock, Hooker, Grant, Burnside, McClellan and Tyler. He enlisted with the Union forces when he was 17 years of age.

He carried the bullets from the wound which brought tears to the President's eyes, to the day of his death.

Last year was the first year that Mr. Buchanan failed to place a wreath on the grave in the Brush Ridge cemetery of Major Titus one of his comrades in the 11th cavalry. Mr. Buchanan made an annual Memorial day pilgrimmage to the grave.

Member of G. A. R.

Mr. Buchanan was a member of Cooper Post No. 117 G. A. R., and until the last few years, when age began making too-great inroads in his health, he always was a familiar figure in the G. A. R. ranks in the Memorial day parades in Marion.

He was born in 1841 in Franklin county, Pennsylvania. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. John Cogley of near Rawson, 11 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren. Among his grandchildren are Mrs. Charles Landon of 259 Leader street and Jason Cogley of Morral.

For many years after Mr. Buchanan came here from Rawson he was employed by the late Benjamin F. Blake, florist. His home in Marion was at 343 Owens street.

The funeral will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the W. G. Caldren funeral home on East Sandusky street in Findlay. Burial will be made in the Powell cemetery eight miles southwest of Findlay.

Nature Pulls Fast One on Bunch of Violets

Nature pulled a surprise out of her bag of tricks this week and caused a patch of wild violets to spring up in the garden of Mrs. W. C. Michel of Waldo.

Mrs. Michel brought half a dozen of the hardy flowers to The Star office to prove her claim. "I never heard of them growing this late before, and can't understand how they can do so well in this kind of weather," she said.

The flowers she exhibited are not fragile or pale from their exposure to the fall weather. Their color is rich and they are perfectly developed.

Marion Printing Company Operates Under NRA

High Class Work Turned Out at Moderate Cost

Concern Equipped To Handle Orders Rapidly; Adhering Strictly To Blue Eagle Requirements.

Before the Graphic Arts code of the N. R. A. the printing industry [illegible] subject to a radical reorganization as to costs and prices for its product. While the industry is still operating under the President's blanket code the work of drafting and adopting a permanent code to govern the printing business is well along toward consummation.

It appears that the situation is dominated by the printers of the east, who maintain a high wage scale and a short week. The question has arisen among the printers of the middle west as to whether they will be able to meet the wage requirements of the proposed code. It is pointed out that the scale of wages prevailing in the east has always [illegible] at the [illegible] before of the [illegible] largely applicable [illegible] country a [illegible] averaged in the [illegible] section, as [illegible].

It is proposed [illegible] uniform system of [illegible] must be adopted and [illegible] for the finished product [illegible] on this cost [illegible]. That would appear [illegible] the industry as a whole [illegible] the employing printer [illegible] concerned about the wage [illegible] as to whether [illegible] enough for the [illegible] to justify the higher wage [illegible] the buyer of printing would be required to pay a higher price for his supplies no matter where he had his work done.

Prices Must Go Up.

Prevailing prices for printing in the larger cities is not notably higher than in the smaller cities and towns and now if the printers in these smaller places are required to meet the wage scale of the cities it is quite evident that the cost of printing here and elsewhere in the smaller cities will also be advanced. That appears to be in keeping with the purpose of the N. R. A. to raise prices.

The proposed code, however, has not been adopted and may yet be revised in some respects. While the cost of printing must advance in general under the code, there is still another reason for the advance in price. The cost of paper has advanced on an average of two cents per pound, while the cost of envelopes has gone up 30 to 35 per cent.

Under the proposed code the ethics of the business should be better observed. The depression has had the effect of inducing a widespread habit of price cutting in order to get more business and this fact has had a demoralizing effect on the situation in general. Now it is proposed that the printer shall have a fair margin of profit and that all shall observe a general rule of figuring costs accurately before quoting on a job. If this is done no hardship will be imposed on any one and all will make a little money and be able to pay their bills.

Price Cutting Out.

The price cutter will be found out sooner or later and will be required to answer to the powers that be under the Graphic Arts code. Printers will continue to submit bids for important work but the margin of difference in their bids should be much smaller than heretofore, providing honest estimates are submitted. It is reasonable to assume that the average purchaser of printing will not object to this and will be glad to know that he is getting his work done at a fair and honest price.

The Marion Printing company is operating under the President's blanket code and has met the requirements of that code as to hours and wages and is awaiting the adoption of the Graphic Arts code which will govern the printing industry. The months of August, September and October were above the average of the last two years in volume of business, although a falling off has been noticeable toward the end of October. A better era for the industry is predicted for the coming year when, it is expected, business conditions generally will become more settled.

Quality Bread One of Most Nourishing Foods

City Bakery's "Holsum" Loaf Rapidly Gaining Popularity Among Marion Housewives.

Good bread, Holsum bread, is just about the finest food of civilization. The nations that are doing things in the world's work now are the nations that eat good bread. Wheat is the finest food that man can eat, and good wheaten bread is fine for everybody. Made fresh every day, baked to a golden crispness, it is also just about the most appetizing food for young or old.

Bakeries are places where such bread is made under the best of conditions, in the cleanest surroundings, with the exact regulation of all ingredients and of the baking temperature, and the correct handling of the finished product. Consequently baker's bread is most wholesome.

Of all the bread that can be obtained, many people insist that there is nothing in the line of the staff of life that quite measures up to "Holsum Bread" baked by the City Bakery on S. Main St. Sure it is that no bread baked receives more care in the process, no bread baked can be more wholesome, and none is handled with more care. The patrons that ask for and insist on having Wholesome Bread do so as a result of their satisfactory experience with it. They have been well pleased with its real goodness, its food qualities, its flavor and its handling. The popularity of this bread is simply a result of its superb quality. If you are not using it, try a loaf and see if you do not agree with your neighbors who say it is all a good bread should be.

"SCOTTIE" HAS ARVIN HEATERS

Cold Weather Motoring Made Pleasant With Hot Water Circulator.

How many of us remember the old days of motoring when there were no sedans or other closed cars to speak of, no heaters, and passengers were forced to wear red flannels, mufflers, ear-tabs, veils, goggles, two pairs of gloves and other things in order to endure the icy breeze that fanned the occupants of Ye Olde Touring Car. There wasn't much pleasure in winter driving then, and many folks just put the old buggy on jacks until spring.

Then came the closed car, and many people thought that the problem of motoring comfort was solved, but not so—the big breeze was gone, but there were a lot of little cracks around the windshield and other places that caused a cold draft which seemed constantly to be seeking entrance down that back of one's neck, causing unpleasant chills to run up and down the spine.

About this time, some bright chap conceived that idea of fastening tin around the exhaust manifold, cutting a hole in the dash and piping some heat into the interior of the car. The heat was all right, but boy how those things did smell, giving off unhealthy smoke laden fumes that gagged the occupants, forcing them to open the windows in desperation.

Today the problem has been solved at last, and an entirely new type of heater has been devised which supplies clean, enjoyable warmth in a great volume. The Arvin Hot Water Heater utilizes the hot water from the circulating system of the motor for its supply of heat. Placed effectively under the dash, this device radiates clean heat at a moment's notice by simply turning on a switch which starts an electric blower behind the attractive, chromium plated register. A Rotating deflector on the front of the register is instantly adjustable to throw a current of pure, warm air up, down, right or left at will.

Three models of the Arvin Heaters are available at Scottie's Lubridome at 151 North State street.

Rather than subject yourself and your family to the dangers of riding in an unheated car, or one equipped with an inferior heater that gives off dangerous fumes it would seem that the wise policy would be to visit Scottie's Lubridome at once and have one of these fine Arvin Heaters installed in your car.

NIPPERT DOES MODERN WORK

Repairs Your Shoes Without Use of Nails or Sewing.

Shoe repair work of the better kind may be expected at Nippert's Shoe Repair Shop at 129 South State street, which is claimed to be one of the most completely equipped shops to be found anywhere in this district. The shop is patronized by a large percentage of persons who exercise economy in footwear and have repairs made when the life of the shoe is far from being spent.

Repair Unnoticeabe

Women who have fine shoes that need re-soleing will be interested to learn that Mr. Nippert can put on new soles without the use of nails or sewing. The cement process is used which takes the place of nails and thread, it is difficult to tell whether or not the original sole has been replaced. It makes a neat serviceable job, without spoiling the shape of the shoe or making it look as though it had been repaired.

Many men patronize the shop because they know that the workmen are thoroughly experienced in putting on full soles. It has been proven an advantage to have full soles put on, carrying the new leather back under the heel, in preference to putting on half soles. When the soles are attached full length, the packing is replaced with new material. New arches are built in with equal facility and benefit the shoes and its wearer.

Dyed Shoes Specialty

Women often discard a perfectly good pair of shoes just because of the color. This is entirely unnecessary, as well as uneconomic for Mr. Nippert can and does dye many pairs of shoes each year in all colors and shades. As a result Milady may even have pumps to match her gowns.

Users Laud Health Giving Qualities of Goat's Milk

A [illegible] new [illegible] in Marion [illegible] of [illegible] seems to be [illegible] used in Marion [illegible] Miss J. Hazel Ault [illegible] and [illegible] Big Island Goat Dairy [illegible] west of Marion [illegible].

Miss Ault [illegible] several new customers [illegible] the last few days [illegible] than a year [illegible] in starting new customers on her product [illegible] reports such as "[illegible] feel better [illegible] Mr. I feel better already. I wouldn't have thought [illegible] anything could help [illegible]" and "Miss Ault, I [illegible] how glad I am to find [illegible] something to help. Who would have thought goat milk would do this."

Miss Ault [illegible] as she says she didn't [illegible] believe a fourth of the cures she used to read about when she first started taking a goat magazine but she has had a little personal experience too. Last summer she became poisoned from eating too much cantaloupe. A slight breaking out resulted, a few days later a trip to the woods resulted in further eruptions, her forearms to the elbows being covered with itching welts.

Upon consulting expert advice she was told the cause and was advised, among other things, to leave milk alone. She persisted "Well what about goat milk." "No, I'd leave it all alone." Miss Ault had such a small amount of milk then, with twelve new customers waiting for milk, and had none for herself for several weeks. After two days of using a bright yellow application which didn't aid to the appearance of her affliction she decided on the use of goat milk if possible—appealed to one of her steady quart customers, he agreed to give up his milk for a week and she took her first quart back home with her. The first was a cupful heated and taken on an empty stomach. In two hours the itching was relieved and no more [illegible] were forming. From Monday until Thursday the entire areas [illegible] sloughed over and by Monday [illegible] arms were well again.

She had been told that it might persist in her blood for months [illegible] she has had no trouble since.

A prominent Union county physician recently told Miss Ault that she was making a mistake in [illegible] her product as ideal for infant feeding and said "We physicians all know that clean goat milk is next to the human milk for the feeding of babies."

U. S. PREPARING TO BUY FOREIGN GOLD

bank of New York, and two of his aids, and Henry Bruere, Professor James H. Rogers of Yale and Professor George Warren of Cornell, financial advisers.

U. S. Offers Highest Price

With America offering the highest price for the metal, there seemed little doubt here that much of the world's supply of newly mined gold might be attracted to this country, unless restricted by imitation.

The amount of the purchases to be made was not defined.

President Roosevelt has been represented as being dissatisfied with the response of commodity markets to his recovery program, following their initial sweeping upturn upon the first purchases of domestic gold. This failure to respond was said in official circles to be due in some measure to a lack of control of the gold value of the dollar abroad.

The magnitude of the new program is apparent when it is considered the world gold production is around $500,000,000 annually. It is considered hardly conceivable though, that every last ounce of this would be sold to the United States.

But there is a possibility of further enhancement of this country's gold prestige. At the close of business Oct. 25, the monetary gold stocks of the United States were listed by the federal reserve board as $4,323,000,000 whereas the world stocks were approximately $11,600,000,000. France, still on the gold standard, is the only other country holding a substantial amount.

Gold Price Goes Up 14 Cents More

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The administration today raised the price of domestic newly mined gold to $31.96 an ounce, 14 cents higher than Saturday's figure and 47 cents above the day's quotation on the world markets.

This marked a new high in the price to be paid for the valuable metal in RFC notes.

By comparison, Saturday's price of $31.82 was $1.25 higher than world prices.

The price of gold in London was advanced today, following announcement of President Roosevelt's intention of buying the yellow metal abroad, by 6½ shillings, the equivalent of 35 cents at today's opening London rate of exchange, $4.80 to the pound.

There was no official telling this morning as yet on the method or other details of how the Roosevelt policy of buying gold in the world market will be pursued, to the end of raising American commodity prices.

When the system of fixed quotations by the RFC was begun last Wednesday, the price was $31.36 an ounce and each succeeding day has seen from 6 to 22 cents added to the previous [illegible] figure.

Wall Street Sums Up Gold Situation

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—One Wall street reaction to President Roosevelt's move to buy gold abroad was summed up today in the opinion that it is a logical and unavoidable step in the monetary policy on which he has embarked.

Some financial observers expressed fear, however, of a currency contest between nations which they felt might ultimately end the international gold standard as it has previously existed.

Retaliation by other nations, if carried to extremes, might bring chaos to the international money situation, they said, and they expressed hope that this would not eventuate.

Some other economists, including John Maynard Keynes of England, have urged general abandonment of the gold standard, and a revaluation of currencies on gold.

A primary point involved in the situation, some Wall street quarters felt, is the danger that Great Britain in order to defend her trade position, might be compelled to compete with the United States for gold if the American policy resulted in sharp depreciation of the dollar.

Donna Watt received the award for the best dressed girl, LeRoy Pains the best dressed boy, Martha Holt for the ragged girl's costume, Dessie Pains the ragged boy's costume, Ada Jane Rinnert and Ellsworth Bailey the funniest outfits.

Entertainment included fortune-telling stunts, games and contests. Refreshments were served. The children gave a vote of thanks to Dr. F. J. Hunter, chairman of the committee in charge of work for underprivileged children in the Kiwanis club and members of the club for the refreshments and transportation to the party.

Eighty-eight children were present for the Sunday school service yesterday and 17 new members were enrolled. Mrs. V. H. Barnhill presided for the music and presented a religious story.

LITVINOFF IN PARIS ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Secrecy Still Veils Plans for Russian's Departure for America.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 30—Abruptly bringing to an end the mystery which had surrounded his movements for hours, Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign commissar, arrived here today enroute to the United States.

He was reported to have left Berlin for Paris yesterday, but he did not arrive on the train he was believed to have taken and it was not until he showed up on his own accord that it was generally known what had happened to him.

His plans for sailing to the United States, where he is to confer with President Roosevelt regarding possible American recognition of Russia, remained veiled in secrecy.

He made no appointments here, but it was said he might see Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour and associates pointed out he would have to get a visa to go on to the United States.

NERVE SHORTENED TO END AMNESIA

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 30 — An unusual operation in which about an inch of a nerve was cut off has ended the attacks of amnesia and hiccoughing which have plagued William Winkler, 24, since he fell from a ladder and broke his neck two years ago.

The nerve, which leads from his neck, was shortened so it would not come in contact with the vertebrae or stomach. Winkler, however, must continue to wear the metal collar he has worn since he was injured.

STRIKERS CONFER WITH GOVERNORS

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 30 — Leaders of the farm strike turned to a gubernatorial conference for aid in the agricultural problem today.

Although reports indicated they were far from their objective as the anti-selling campaign as it entered its second week, strike leaders said they were pleased with week-end developments and prepared to renew demands for embargoes on farm products before a conference of governors or their representatives from 10 midwestern states.

Harding Puts Up Valiant Scrap but Loses to Mansfield

NOTRE DAME INSISTS NOTHING WRONG IN SPITE OF BEATINGS

Nothing Particularly Amazing About Losses, President Declares in Interview.

NOTE—One of the leading football questions of the day is: "What's the matter with Notre Dame?" To gain some clues to the answer and get the background first-hand, Alan Gould, general sports editor of The Associated Press, visited South Bend, watched the football team in action and talked with the principal athletic or executive leaders of the university. The first of a series of three stories on his findings is given herewith.

* * *

BY ALAN GOULD

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 30.—There is no crepe on the golden dome of Notre Dame that reflects the rays of an Indian summer sun above the colorful Autumn foliage of the university campus.

The leaves have been falling; the football team has lost two straight games without so much as scoring a point and Notre Dame's gridiron fortunes are at the lowest ebb. But the effects appear less serious to those within than to a host of others outside the university.

Loyalty Undimmed

Whatever may be done about it, after the conclusion of the 1933 season, Notre Dame still has its head upon the gridiron and the campus, its loyalty to the team is undiminished.

In short the proof is at hand that Notre Dame can "take it."

What's wrong with this picture? What's happened since the sudden tragic death of Knute Kenneth Rockne in an airplane disaster? What price football, in fact, and what are they going to do about it?

In brief, the answers are that nothing is fundamentally wrong as a whole, there was only one Rockne and that Notre Dame, in due and appropriate time, not only will readjust its organization but quite likely regain a pre-eminent spot in the football world.

"Notre Dame has a background and tradition that extends over 41 years," remarks Father John S. O'Hara, C.S.C., acting president and the man to whom new leadership is looked for in the next few years.

"There is not the slightest chance of our losing a sense of balance and proportion, merely because we lost a few football games. We have lost them before, then as now, in good spirit. Rockne's team of 1928 lost four games without the world coming to an end. In fact I believe that team enjoyed its season and got equally as much, if not more out of it than some of our unbeaten teams.

"I have the feeling personally that the 1933 team will find itself before the season is over and give a good account of itself. Certainly, it would be foolhardy now for us to consider any premature surgery. The fact is, we have none in mind."

Anderson Under Fire

The two-year head coaching regime of Heartly (Hunk) Anderson has been under increasing fire nevertheless. Two straight defeats have not strengthened Hunk's position. The feeling is he has been put "on the spot."

Anderson, whatever obstacles he may be struggling against, offers no alibis, nor does Jesse Harper, director of athletics.

Says Harper: "We know how to take defeat gracefully and sustain or develop the football relationships that mean so much to Notre Dame, from coast to coast. As long as Anderson is coaching the team, he has 100 per cent support from me and the entire university. We are not panicky."

Tygers' Aerial Attack Beats Presidents, 25-0

Marion Stops invader's Running Plays But Long Forward Passes Result in Downfall.

Their vaunted running attack broken up by stubborn Harding defenders who refused to be pushed around, Mansfield High school's Tygers took to the airways at Fairground field Saturday and added the red and black clad Presidents to their constantly growing list of gridiron victims. The final score was 25-0 but the score is in no manner indicative of the brilliant battle the Presidents waged against one of the best scholastic football teams in Ohio. That the Tygers had the superior football combination there is no question. But neither is there any doubt that Harding put up a more valiant scrap than any Marion team of recent years.

The defeat, the second in league competition, shoved the Presidents down into a tie for the cellar position with Galion, who lost to Ashland Saturday. Marion and Galion will clash next Saturday to determine which will be the sole occupant of last place. Mansfield clung to the top rung by the victory, the second of the season against an N. C. O. foe.

Passes Score

Two intercepted Harding aerials and two long forward tosses of their own brought the four Mansfield touchdowns. Despite the fact they were able to reel off consistent gains in midfield area, the Tygers were not able to batter their way through the Harding defenses when the goal line was in sight. Harding stopped every Mansfield attempt to lug the ball across the payoff line on power plays, forcing them to take to the air to get into touchdown territory.

Mansfield ability to reel off consistent gains in midfield enabled the Tygers to collect 14 first downs to four for Marion. The Presidents were unable to do much about halting the variety of Mansfield spinners and straight line smashes which were turned loose at them in the open spaces. With their backs to their own goal line, it was a different story, Harding breaking up every scoring thrust of the enemy backs.

Mansfields first touchdown came in the middle of the first period, due more to a strategical error on the part of Marion's field general than anything else. After taking the kickoff Harding was unable to do anything about advancing the ball so Whitcum kicked to the Mansfield 45-yard line. The Tygers immediately launched a drive toward the Marion goal line which threatened for a time to produce a touchdown. Harding put on the first of its brilliant stands on its own on its own 15 and forced Mansfield to pass on the fourth down. Jenkins was in the open for the pass but dropped Olin's toss and Marion took the ball.

On the first play, Whitcum faded back and heaved a pass intended for Frasier in the flat zone. Becker Jenkins, Mansfield's speed merchant, raced in fast, grabbed the ball out of the air and sprinted 24 yards to a touchdown. Jenkins also kicked the extra point to put the Tygers out in front 7-0.

Tygers Connect Twice

A pair of long passes brought Mansfield's two touchdowns in the second period. Olin lugged the ball across for the first and Zediker took the second. Both tries for point failed, Goerlich smashing through to block the first kick and the second going wide.

With several second string Mansfield boys in the lineup as the third period started, Marion launched a drive toward Mansfield's goal line which brought the regulars back into action in less than two minutes. BRUINS-KLEIN TRADE CLAIMED IN CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The Cubs-Klein baseball deal was renewed again when the Herald and Examiner in a copyrighted story today claimed Klein had been sold to the Chicago Cubs. Cub officials, however, denied the deal had been completed.

The Herald and Examiner said the Cubs had purchased Klein for $65,000, infielder Mark Koenig and two other players. The Examiner also claims Chuck Hafey will wear a Cub uniform in 1934.

The story also said that Kiki Cuyler was traded to Cincinnati for Chick Hafey, but it carried little stock with the critics and fans. President Sidney Weil of Cincinnati denied the trade.

THREE TEAMS STAND OUT AS CLASSIEST IN BUCKEYE CIRCLE

Ohio University, Muskingum and Findlay Boast Impressive Records.

Collegiate football in Ohio enters the home stretch this week-end with Muskingum, Ohio University and Findlay college favored in their respective league races.

The Muskies are riding the crest of the Ohio conference wave with four victories and one tie; Ohio university has one win and no defeats in the Buckeye Athletic association, along with Wesleyan and Cincinnati, but the impressive total of 220 points made in five contests has installed the Bobcats as top-heavy favorites. Findlay, beyond a doubt is the class of the little Northwest Ohio league.

One of the three leaders in the B. A. A. will fall this week when Cincinnati goes to Ohio Wesleyan. Outside of the Indiana-Ohio State game at Columbus, this will be the most important in the state. Ohio university will take on Wittenberg at Springfield in the other league game of the week-end.

Saturday Muskingum went to the front in the Ohio group by trouncing Wooster, 9 to 6. It was the first defeat of the year for the Scots and eliminated the last Ohio eleven from the undefeated and untied class.

Baldwin Wallace also has a perfect record in the senior circuit with two games and one tied but bumps up against a stern foe in Dayton this week-end. The Bereans lost an opportunity to clinch the greater Cleveland title last week when they dropped a hard fought 6 to 0 game to Western Reserve.

Wooster will attempt a comeback this week against Case in another outstanding game on the schedule. The week's program shows nine Ohio conference contests, two in the Buckeye, and one each in the Western and Northwest conferences.

Galion Smothered by Powerful Attack of Hilltoppers, Losing, 32-7.

Unleashing a powerful third period attack which netted a total of 19 points, Ashland High school had little difficulty Saturday in vanquishing the Galion Orangemen in an N. C. O. league game. The score was 32-7. Ashland led the game at the half 13-0, Ganyard and Freer scoring in the first two periods. In the third quarter, McIlyar of Galion, raced 50 yards after catching a pass to mark up the only points for the Orangmen.

Ashland collected 18 first downs to one for Galion and rolled up 365 yards from scrimmage to 80 for Galion. Seventy of Galion's 80 came on the touchdown play.

"BUCKY" HARRIS TO DIRECT ACTIVITIES OF BOSTON RED SOX

One Time "Boy-Wonder" Signs One-Year Contract as Manager.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—Stanley "Bucky" Harris, the boy who turned Washington upside-down by winning its first pennant, has come to Boston to manage the Red Sox.

He has signed for one year and is going to be a third base coaching box manager, not a bench manager as he was most of the time he spent with the Detroit Tigers.

Harris resigned as manager of the Detroit club early in September. He came to terms with Tom Yawkey, the Boston club's president, last Friday. Yesterday brought the announcement of his one-year managerial contract.

"If I can't get results in a year," Harris said, "then somebody else deserves the chance."

Bucky, like Shano Collins, is a former infield immortal. He played one of the smartest and most capable games at second base that modern baseball has shown.

Bucky's five years as manager at Washington saw him win the pennant and world championship in 1924—one of the most glamorous series up to that time. In 1925 his Senators finished first but lost the world's series to Pittsburgh. During his next three years at Washington Bucky managed always to finish his team in the money.

At Detroit things were not so rosey. He failed to finish in the first division in five years.

The signing of Harris marked the third step in the rebuilding of the Red Sox.

Since Collins and Yawkey took the place of Bob Quinn, now business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and his Columbus, Ohio associates, they have spent the equivalent of $260,000 for new players and have appropriated as much again to increase the seating capacity at Fenway park.

Collins described these two operations as the first steps in the club's rebuilding plans. The engagement of Harris, he said, was the third.

BROUILLARD WILL RISK RING TITLE

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The middleweight title of brawny Lou Brouillard will be at stake here tonight in a 15-round joust.

Brouillard has trained earnestly for his first risk of the title he wa-loped from the brow of New York's Ben Jeby. He has not forgotten that the welterweight title he took from a fading Jack Thompson was snatched from him by Jackie Fields before he had capitalized much on it.

The French Canadian, a crowding, boring fighter who fires his rear gun from the portside, was expected to turn back Dundee but the latter had different expectations.

SATURDAY GRIDIRON CONTESTS FAIL TO SETTLE TITLE RACES

Contenders Narrowed Down, However, and Games This Week Will Aid Solution.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—[illegible]

On the basis [illegible] challengers for [illegible] line up as follows:

Big Ten—Michigan, the favorite, trailed by Illinois, Purdue and Minnesota.

East—[illegible] Fordham, Army, Princeton, Holy Cross and Duquesne [illegible]

Pacific Coast—Oregon, Southern California and Oregon State the only remaining contenders.

Wide Open Race

Southeastern—Still a wide open fight among Georgia, Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Vanderbilt and Louisiana State.

Southern—Duke and South Carolina threatened only by Washington & Lee and North Carolina.

Big Six—Nebraska stands alone.

Rocky Mountain—Utah still the team to beat, with Denver and the Colorado Aggies the sole challengers.

Missouri Valley—Oklahoma A. and M. alone blocks Drake's path to the title.

These contenders will be further reduced this week in a program which will provide these salient points:

East: Among the undefeated and untied teams, Fordham, stacking up against St. Mary's husky Gaels; Princeton, facing Brown; Duquesne, encountering Washington & Jefferson, and Holy Cross, traveling west to play Detroit, all run into some danger. Army rests up after its smashing triumph over Yale by playing a "breather" against undefeated Coe college of Iowa. Three of the four major eastern elevens who have been tied but not beaten will meet strong intersectional rivals, George Washington squaring off against Tennessee, Carnegie Tech against Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., and Colgate against Tulane at New York. Dartmouth, tied by Harvard, plays an old jinx, Yale. The Notre Dame-Navy, Pitt-Centre, Temple-Drake and West Virginia-Marquette games complete the intersectional slate with the Cornell-Columbia, Penn-Lafayette, Syracuse-Penn State and Bucknell-Western Maryland contests contributing to the "domestic" program.

Michigan vs. Illinois

Big Ten: Michigan and Illinois clash in the biggest game from a championship standpoint. Minnesota's title hopes will be tested by Northwestern, while Ohio State plays Indiana. Iowa meets Iowa State.

Big Six: Nebraska looks for its fourth conference victory at Missouri's expense with Oklahoma playing Kansas. Kansas State deploys against Michigan State at East Lansing.

Pacific Coast: All of the leaders have an open date except Oregon which faces Utah of the Rocky Mountain group. U. C. L. A. and California meet in the only conference game, with Washington State battling Gonzaga and Stanford playing the Olympic club.

South: Alabama and Kentucky seek to eliminate each other from the Southeastern conference race with Georgia favored over Florida and Vanderbilt threatened by Georgia Tech.

Sound Tough Anyway.

LAST MINUTE RALLY BY AKRON GAINS TIE WITH CRESTLINE, 6-6

Ellet Junior Scores on Aerials in Last Minute of Play.

CRESTLINE, Oct. 30.—The Crestline Merchants and Akron Ellet Juniors battled through four periods of gruelling football at Lincoln stadium here Sunday afternoon the game ending in a 6-6 deadlock. Akron's touchdown marked the first time this season the goal line of the Merchants had been crossed and the tie score was the only deadlock suffered by the Akron team in two years.

Neither team was able to cross the goal line in the first half but Crestline struck swiftly in the third quarter and scored a touchdown. Eustice, Akron back, fumbled the third period kick-off and Wilcox recovered the ball for Crestline on the Akron 31-yard line. In two thrusts at the line Burnison lugged the leather to the Akron five and then Burnison smashed it across. Wilcox had two chances to make the extra point but missed both of them.

Immediately following the Crestline score, Akron turned loose a vicious attack which Crestline managed to stave off a touchdown until the last 60 seconds of play. A pair of desperate forward passes, one allowed because of interference, carried the ball to the Crestline 16 from where Kilbourne again passed, this time across the final line to Robinette. Crestline smothered the extra point try.

Akron piled up twice as many first downs as the Merchants, collecting 14 to Crestline's seven.

The lineups:

Crestline—6	Pos.	Akron—6
Tutson	LE	Robinette
Martin	LT	Cope
Stock	LG	Oldak
D. Fleiner	C	Goodman
Lawrence	RG	Donahue
W. Fleiner	RT	Biesel

Substitutions—Crestline: Burns, Laghtburn, Kemp, Knapp. Akron: Callabria, Blowers, DeBos, Biddle, Morrison.

Touchdowns—Burnison, Robinette.

Too Much Warburton.

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 30—At least one football coach's worst fears have been realized. Before the California-Southern California game, Bill Ingram of the Bears said his team could match Southern California in every way except for the Griffith-Warburton threat. And sure enough in the last quarter Irvin Warburton broke loose for a 60-yard run that gave the Trojans a 6-3 victory.

Insurance Company Executive Files Action in Crawford County Court.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 30. A damage suit for $100,000, one of the largest ever filed in Crawford county, has been recorded in common pleas court by Ervin Wagner, prominent resident of Sulphur Springs and secretary of the Crawford County Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., against Clinton Long.

Wagner was seriously injured Dec. 25, 1932 when his automobile crashed into a truck driven by Long on the Plymouth road during a dense fog. Long is charged with negligence in that he was operating the truck at an excessive rate of speed and that he was on the wrong side of the road.

Wagner, who was confined to City hospital for many weeks, is still unable to return to work and is forced to use a wheel chair, he asserts in his petition filed by Attorneys J. D. Sears and O. W. Kennedy.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO RUN 308 AT BILLIARDS

ERICH HAGENLOCHER, twice 18.2 balk-line billiard champion of the world. Healthy nerves have carried him through stern international competition to many titles. (In oval) Mr. Hagenlocher says: "For successful billiard play, watch your nerves! I've smoked Camels for years. They're milder. They never upset my nervous system."

TALKING IT OVER calls for more Camels. Steady smoking reveals the true quality of a cigarette. Camels keep right on tasting mild, rich and cool... no matter how many you smoke.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

"I know of no sport," says Erich Hagenlocher, "that places a greater strain on the nerves than tournament billiards. The slightest inaccuracy can ruin an important run. One simple rule for success is, 'Watch your nerves!' I have smoked Camels for years. I like their taste better. Because they're milder, they never upset my nervous system, and believe me, I smoke plenty."

There is a difference between Camel's costlier tobaccos and the tobaccos used in other popular cigarettes. You'll notice the difference in taste and in mildness—and Camels never jangle your nerves. You can prove this yourself. Begin today!
